

JUDY BLAIR

FACILITATOR

Affinity caucusing (meetings of people who share an identity, whether it be race, class, gender, or something else) is a useful tool in the arsenal of equity work.

Nothing feels better than talking to people who understand your experiences, and allowing individuals to have that space encourages open communication with the rest of the team.

Judy has extensive experience facilitating caucuses, but she specializes in working with white folks around racial issues. She's ready to help your difficult conversations become productive.

Rates are project-based and tailored to your needs.

Inquire for more information.

judy@judy-blair.com

judy-blair.com

pronouns: she/her racial identity: white